Jordan Gonzalez is Of Counsel with Klasko Immigration and is located in the European Union. He is a member of the firm's Global Mobility team, providing clients in EMEA, LATMA, and APAC with strategic insight on global immigration and compliance.

Hailing from a bilingual, binational, and bicultural household on the U.S.-Mexico border, Jordan understands the unique role immigration plays in strengthening the future of start-ups, established businesses, and families globally. In this regard, Jordan is uniquely attuned to protecting the rights of every individual regardless of their birthplace. He is passionate about helping his corporate clients hire the talent they need to grow, and assisting his individual clients meet both their career and long-term immigration ambitions.

In addition to Jordan's expertise in providing bespoke global mobility solutions, Jordan is an integral member of Klasko's Litigation practice group, where he leads on mass-impact, Administrative Procedure Act, and mandamus litigation efforts. Leveraging nearly a decade of U.S. immigration law knowledge, accrued in part through his time with an Am Law 100 law firm, Jordan also supports the firm's corporate immigration team.
